Article 14

Discrimination through violence

(Last updated: 28/02/2025)

Introduction

The guarantees of Article 14 apply:

- when the applicant is a victim of violence directly caused by the State authorities or by a private individual (Abdu v. Bulgaria, 2014);
- because of his or her belonging to a particular group, or his or her association with a person belonging to a particular group (Škorjanec v. Croatia, 2017).

State obligations in brief

Substantive limb:

- Whether or not discriminatory attitudes were a causal factor in the impugned conduct (Stoica v. Romania, 2008, § 118; Antayev and Others v. Russia, 2014, § 123; Aghdgomelashvili and Japaridze v. Georgia, 2020, § 46).
- In principle, the burden of proof lies on the applicant. Exceptionally, where the events lie wholly, or in large part, within the exclusive knowledge of the authorities, the burden of proof is on the authorities to provide a satisfactory and convincing explanation. Equally, in certain cases of alleged discrimination the respondent Government may be required to disprove an arguable allegation of discrimination and – if they fail to do so – the Court may find a violation of Article 14 of the Convention on that basis (Nachova and Others v. Bulgaria [GC], 2005, § 157; Lapunov v. Russia, 2023, § 106).
- However, the alleged failure of the authorities to carry out an effective investigation into the supposedly racist motive for the violent act should not, in itself, shift the burden of proof to the Government with regard to the alleged violation of Article 14 of the Convention taken in conjunction with the substantive aspect of Article 2 or 3 (Nachova and Others v. Bulgaria [GC], 2005, § 157).

Procedural limb:

- The States have an obligation to investigate possible racist motives for acts of violence (Nachova and Others v. Bulgaria [GC], 2005, § 160).
- Where there is suspicion that racial attitudes induced a violent act, the authorities are under an obligation to pursue an official investigation with vigour and impartiality (Nachova and Others v. Bulgaria [GC], 2005, § 160).
- Failing to unmask discriminatory motives and treating discriminatory-induced violence and brutality on an equal footing with cases that have no discriminatory overtones would be turning a blind eye to the specific nature of acts that are particularly destructive of fundamental rights (Nachova and Others v. Bulgaria [GC], 2005, § 160).

- The obligation to prove a discriminatory motive is an obligation to use best endeavours: the authorities must do what is reasonable in the circumstances (Nachova and Others v. Bulgaria [GC], 2005, § 160).

Noteworthy examples

The Court has adjudicated cases of violence based on different characteristics of the victim:

- Gender: Opuz v. Turkey, 2009; Eremia v. the Republic of Moldova, 2013; Halime Kiliç v. Turkey, 2016; M.G. v. Turkey, 2016; Talpis v. Italy, 2017; Volodina v. Russia, 2019; Tkheldize v. Georgia, 2021; A and B v. Georgia, 2022;
- Race and ethnic origin: Nachova and Others v. Bulgaria [GC], 2005; Moldovan and Others v. Romania (no. 2), 2005; B.S. v. Spain, 2012; Škorjanec v. Croatia, 2017; Makuchyan and Minasyan v. Azerbaijan and Hungary, 2020; Adzhigitova and Others v. Russia, 2021; Paketova and Others v. Bulgaria, 2022;
- Religion: Members of the Gldani Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses and Others v. Georgia, 2007; Milanović v. Serbia, 2010; Georgian Muslim Relations and Others v. Georgia, 2023;
- Political opinion: Virabyan v. Armenia, 2012;
- Ideology Kreyndlin and Others v. Russia, 2023; and
- Sexual orientation: Identoba and Others v. Georgia, 2015; M.C. and A.C. v. Romania, 2016; Aghdgomelashvili and Japaridze v. Georgia, 2020; Sabalić v. Croatia, 2021; Genderdoc-M and M.D. v. the Republic of Moldova, 2021; Women's Initiatives Supporting Group and Others v. Georgia, 2021; Oganezova v. Armenia, 2022; Stoyanova v. Bulgaria, 2022; Lapunov v. Russia, 2023; Romanov and Others v. Russia, 2023; Karter v. Ukraine, 2024; Hanovs v. Latvia, 2024.

Where discriminatory attitudes were a causal factor in the impugned conduct:

- Stoica v. Romania, 2008 – ill-treatment of a Roma minor by a police officer during an incident between officials and Roma;
- Antayev and Others v. Russia, 2014 – ill-treatment of Chechen suspects by the police;
- Makuchyan and Minasyan v. Azerbaijan and Hungary, 2020 – the failure to enforce a foreign prison sentence and the pardoning of a convicted perpetrator of an ethnically-biased hate crime committed abroad, leading to his virtual impunity and glorification, causally related to the victims' ethnic origin;
- Aghdgomelashvili and Japaridze v. Georgia, 2020 – abusive police conduct during search of premises of an LGBT NGO motivated by homophobic and/or transphobic hatred;
- Lapunov v. Russia, 2023 – abduction, detention and torture of the applicant by State agents in Chechnya on account of his sexual orientation.

Failure of the domestic authorities to carry out an effective investigation of discriminatory motives:

- Nachova and Others v. Bulgaria [GC], 2005; Bekos and Koutropoulos v. Greece, 2005; Ognyanova and Choban v. Bulgaria, 2006; Members of the Gldani Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses and Others v. Georgia, 2007; Angelova and Iliev v. Bulgaria, 2007; Turan Cakir v. Belgium, 2009; Virabyan v. Armenia, 2012; Eremia v. the Republic of Moldova, 2013; Abdu v. Bulgaria, 2014; M.C. and A.C. v. Romania, 2016; Talpis v. Italy, 2017; Škorjanec v. Croatia, 2017; Bălșan v. Romania, 2017; Aghdgomelashvili and Japaridze

v. Georgia, 2020; Adzhigitova and Others v. Russia, 2021; Genderdoc-M and M.D. v. the Republic of Moldova, 2021; Oganezova v. Armenia, 2022; Georgian Muslim Relations and Others v. Georgia, 2023, Lapunov v. Russia, 2023; Romanov and Others v. Russia, 2023, Karter v. Ukraine, 2024; Allouche v. France, 2024; Hanovs v. Latvia, 2024.

Cases of manifest disproportion between the gravity of the act and the punishment imposed at domestic level:

- Sabalić v. Croatia, 2021 – conviction in minor offences proceedings and small fine for violent homophobic attack, and subsequent discontinuation of criminal proceedings on ne bis in idem grounds.

Recap of general principles:

- For a recapitulation of general principles under Article 14, taken together with both the substantive and procedural aspects of Article 2, in cases of violent incidents or deaths induced by racial attitudes, see Nachova and Others v. Bulgaria [GC], 2005, §§ 157- 161.
- For a recapitulation of general principles under Articles 3 and 14 concerning the State's procedural obligation when confronted with cases of violent incidents triggered by suspected discriminatory attitudes, see Sabalić v. Croatia, 2021, §§ 93-98.
